The Church of our Lady of Victories at Kensington is a handsome building of Gothic architecture which stands in a secluded position almost hidden by the houses of High Street, Kensington. For many years this church was the pro-Cathedral of Westminster and contained the archiepiscopal throne. Here it was that Cardinal Manning pontificated and his Eminence's "Red Hat" is still preserved among the treasured relics of the church.

Dear Mr. Rose.

Many thanks for card which arrived last morning. It was very kind of you to send me one & I'm afraid I have not made much ^{in acknowledging,} repetition as you are obtaining address, but please excuse me.

Was very glad to see you also again & here's to our future meetings!
